Dust Mites in the Home?

Dust Mites

Can Breed Everywhere – in your carpet, furniture, mattress, bedding and even in the dust on smooth surfaces. Dust not only carries dust mites they also contain substances such as cigarette ash, mold spores, and cockroach droppings which can cause allergies.

Dust mite feces contain protein substances that when in contact with the skin or inhaled produce an allergic reaction in some people.

To control dust mite populations in your home or office it is important to detail and damp dust regularly, vacuum all carpets areas and clean/sanitize all smooth surfaces.

To help keep your family dust and allergy free this season
